A Railroad Story

Several weeks ago, C. P. Fullington of Kansas City arrived in Meade with two bankers from Paris. They had a railroad project in mind, and with her usual alacrity, Meade fell in line, and the talk started. The party went over the proposed route through Haskell, Grant, Morton and Meade counties, looking over the proposed right-of-way. This week, Mr. Fullington and his associates of Kansas City are sending an attorney to Paris to report the latest developments to the financiers, and to draw up the contracts. The road looks so much like a sure go, that contracts, contingent upon the financing of the scheme have been let. If there is no slip in Paris, the construction of the road will start before January the first. The southwest terminal will be Des Moines, N. M., and the road will originate at Meade, according to the present plans.

Last week, Jay, Nin, and Frank Ellis of Fowler passed through Liberal in their in Ford car on their way from the southwest corner of the state to Des Moines, N. M. It is said that they have the contract to furnish water for the new road, and they were locating the wells along the proposed route. They will also furnish the water service equipment for the new road, according to the rumors around town Monday.

R. R. Wilson and C. D. Hickok of Ulysses and John W. Baughman of this city have offered to guarantee the right of way through Grant county. It is probable that the offer will be accepted. These men own quite a lot of land in Grant county and are anxious to see the road built.

Broomcorn

The total receipts on the local market last week were heavy for this time of year. The shipment of one car last week brings the total for the season up to 775 cars. The price continues at about the same. The general opinion of the buyers here is that the brush here will be of a much better quality than last year, and this will bring a good price, for a lot of the brush being held over from last year's crop is of an inferior quality. The price for the poorer grades will be comparatively smaller than last season.
